Health Officer's Report.

Health Officer Dr. G. H. Jennings for the town of Griswold has prepared his annual statement which will appear in the town register. He finds during the whole year but two cases of contagious disease, one of measles and one of typhoid fever. A nuisance existing in the town was the case of a dead horse being lying above ground, at a certain locality. The health officer, with others, investigated and found the horse to be a dead horse skeleton with bare bones bleached by years of sun and rain, was found some distance away. Unsanitary conditions were reported existing in the outbuildings connected with certain of the outlying district schoolhouses. These were remedied by the committee. A new well is being drilled at Glasgow, the water had become polluted by surface wash from a closet 100 feet away. The officer had analyzed in several cases. In one district cases of German measles were carefully watched to be certain it was not scarlet fever. The rage for the rag for the rag of Griswold stands at an agreeably high mark.

HORSE STEPPED INTO DITCH.

Priest from Canada and His Host Thrown from Carriage.

Rev. Alexandre Archambeault of Canada, who was coming with his host, Prosper Vegard, of Valley street, met with an accident Saturday morning. The priest and Mr. Vegard were riding in Mr. Vegard's carriage. They were on Mansfield avenue and as the horse was walking along both men were engaged in conversation. All of a sudden both were pitched out of the carriage into the road. When they got up they found that the horse had stepped into a ditch which had been excavated in a portion of the street by laborers in the employ of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company for the laying of a gas service pipe. As the horse went into the ditch one of the laborers settled the horse, and made no attempt to run away. Mr. Vegard was injured a little, but not enough to have the services of a physician. Father Archambeault walked to the Vegard home, but Mr. Vegard, with the assistance of Fred Morey, got into his carriage and drove home, a short distance away.

Equine Ingratitude.

J. L. Cady of Pleasant-street is going about these days with a very painful limp. It happened in his attempt to free a horse that had become stuck in a stall. Mr. Cady went to the horse's assistance and the animal, in gratitude for slipping its teeth over Mr. Cady's thumb and biting until the teeth went to the bone. A physician dressed the painful injury.

Lightning Burns Off Part of Cow's Tail

Nancy, favorite cow of George Chalenger at Windham Center, became aware Friday afternoon that there was something far from pleasant about an electric storm. During the storm she had half of her tail burned off. Nancy must have been standing or lying close to a fence with her tail on a strand of wire.

Postmaster W. H. Brown Putting Interesting Stones Into House—Borough Health Report—Reswell Moffat Arrested Under Suspicion—Mach and Money of Drowned Max Mintz Missing.

Postmaster W. H. Brown is building a new home on the East Main street heights. It will front on the street at the junction of Brown avenue. Mr. Brown is much interested in genealogy and historic matters connected with his family ancestry. The underpinning of his house is to be faced in cobblestones, many of which will be placed a number of stones from different points concerning the family line. There will be one from the grave of Ichabod Palmer, a Pendleton Hill, also from the old house built in 1723, a stone from the fireplace and a brick from the old oven, which recall a time well toward two centuries ago. The Oliver Palmer place at Laurel Glen has furnished a stone, and one from the Capt. Charles Cranford burial ground at Pendleton Hill, where sleep many historic dead; one from the old Crandall cellar and one from the Thompson cemetery in the vicinity of Hopkinton City.

There will be a small relic picked up near the grave of the famous Lady Ann Borodell Denison, who died in 1713, and another from the Quaker cemetery, and another from Wequete-voque cemetery. There is one from the Quaker place in Griswold, the John Collins house in Hopkinton City built in 1767; from the Quaker cemetery and meeting house at that place, from the old Prudence Crandall residence in Canterbury; from the Kilborn monument, Walpole, N. H.; from the marker of the old Westminster, Vt. court house when it was situated in New York state; from Putnam's Wolf den, from the Gov. Trumbull house in Lebanon, which is of local Revolutionary interest, from Sugar brook in Maine; from the residence of Stephen Bennett, a Revolutionary soldier from whom Mrs. Brown is a descendant. Others are from Bloody Brook, Deerfield, Mass.; North church, Bowdoin, Me.; Paul Revere house, Mr. Vernon and Fortness-Munroe, Va. There are many others from several out of the state, and the list is long. They are all numbered and listed.

ROSWELL MOFFAT ARRESTED.

Had Just Been Released from Brooklyn Jail—Articles in His Possession Arouse Suspicion.

Friday night Officers Wolfe and Gingsas arrested Roswell Moffat and he is in the lockup here, where it is hoped the officers may induce him to give information regarding certain recent movements made by him. He is what is designated in police parlance as a bad actor. He was released Tuesday from Brooklyn jail, where he has been serving a nine months' sentence for burglary. He is the man, positively identified here Saturday by Officer Mitchell of Central Village. He pleaded guilty seven years ago to the charge of arson in connection with the burning of the Taft barn.

He had been hanging around the borough two nights and was seen by Officer Wolfe to board a large moving truck one night between 1 and 2 o'clock. When arrested Friday night he was making for a box car near the station. Saturday morning when David Blake, the yardmaster, looked into the car he found a box (a patent medicine cart). In it was a new .38 calibre revolver, loaded, a box of cartridges, two razors, a hone, and an engraved silver mounted meerschaum pipe, estimated to be worth seven or eight dollars.

When questioned at the lockup by Station Agent O. F. Miller, Moffat admitted that he had been carrying a box, but said it contained bread. When released from Brooklyn jail he had $43 turned over to him by the sheriff. He has $41 now. Questioned: How has he lived and come into possession of the valuable firearms, etc., on $2? The police hope to get some statement today.

Meeting of D. A. R. Chapter.

The monthly meeting of the Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at B. C. Bliss at her home on East Main street. The regent, Mrs. M. B. Brown, presided. The chapter listened with pleasure to an interesting and instructive paper on the Rise and Fall of the American Merchant Marine, by Miss Alice A. Brown. This paper was read by her on a previous occasion. Several selections were given by the hostess on her new Victrola. At the close, during the social hour, delicious refreshments were enjoyed by the company.

The ladies were thrown into a small panic during the heavy thunder shower when a flash and bolt much larger

At the fall meeting of the W. C. T. U., held in the Baptist church Sunday evening, a large audience listened to the addresses of Rev. Allan Spidell, pastor of the church, and Rev. Francis S. ### MINTZ'S RELATIVES SUSPICIOUS.

Norwich Man, Drowned Friday, Had Watch and Money, Now Missing.

M. Hourigan's ambulance came to Jewett City Sunday morning and removed the body of Max Mintz, who was accidentally drowned here Friday in the town register. The body was not taken by the relatives from the Hourigan undertaking rooms Saturday on account of it being Yom Kippur, a Jewish holiday. The report was current about the borough Friday night that Mr. Mintz had been struck by lightning while in the water during the heavy shower of Friday afternoon, but the findings of the coroner proved nothing of the sort to have happened. The man was drowned and his body recovered before the storm.

A little before noon Sunday Dr. Cassidy of Norwich telephoned Medical Examiner Jennings at Jewett City, stating that the body of the drowned man believed there had been foul play. It now seems peculiar that the man's watch and money, that he was known to have had, have not been found. At the time of the autopsy at Hourigan's rooms, the only articles in the man's clothes were a dime, a pocket comb, a tape measure and an account book. The slight discolorations on the face and the minor scratch on the neck are entirely superficial and convey no suggestion of foul play to the medical examiner.
